Exploring Science

Real Science. Real World. Right Now.

Authentic National Geographic Experience

CALIFORNIA

Available in Spanish

Exploring Science California connects students to real-world science and to real National Geographic Explorers, scientists, and engineers. Students learn Science and Engineering Practices, Disciplinary Core Ideas, and Crosscutting Concepts from real scientists and Explorers who use those skills every day to make new discoveries and to solve problems.

What Makes Exploring Science California Unique?

- Authentic National Geographic experience with Explorers doing real science right now
- Science Notebooks to practice real science
- Variety of lessons support 3-Dimensional instruction
- Integrated literacy combines science content and literacy skills development
- Balanced instruction to meet the needs of your classroom

National Geographic Explorers

A National Geographic Explorer hosts each grade level of Exploring Science California, introducing students to the practices and skills scientists and engineers use to do their work.

Each grade includes other Explorers and scientists who:

- » Are role models for students and encourage them to act and think like real scientists
- » Demonstrate how and why students will use their Science Notebooks
- » Introduce the phenomena and concepts of each unit

Science Notebooks to Practice Real Science

Explorers model for students how they use their notebooks. Students will then apply this knowledge while they create and develop their own Science Notebook.

A Common Core Curriculum for California Middle Schools

Big Ideas Math California Edition is the only comprehensive program developed for the Common Core State Standards and written with embedded mathematical practices while addressing the progressions documents. Developed by award-winning authors Ron Larson and Laurie Boswell, the Big Ideas Math program answers the call for a more focused, coherent, and rigorous middle school math curriculum.

Create Confident Learners With:

- Dynamic Technology for the 21st-Century Classroom
- Complete Support for Teachers in Lesson Planning and Lesson Presentation
- Dynamic Assessment System
- Research-Based Content and Delivery
- Rigorous, Focused, and Coherent Curriculum
- Balanced Approach to Instruction
- Continuous Preparation for High-Stakes Assessment
- Embedded RTI, Differentiated Instruction, and ELL Support

Dr. Ron Larson and Dr. Laurie Boswell

No other authorship team provides the balance of classroom experience and mathematical expertise that the Big Ideas Math program authors bring to the table. Ron Larson has dedicated his life to providing students with all of the tools they need to be successful in mathematics. Laurie Boswell is a master educator and provides invaluable support for teachers.

Dr. Larson and Dr. Boswell began writing together in 1992. Since that time, they have authored over three dozen textbooks. In their collaboration, Ron is primarily responsible for the Student Edition while Laurie is primarily responsible for the Teaching Edition.
